

Consulting Services and Solution Development

Franwell is a technology development company dedicated to providing RFID supply chain solutions for a variety of industries, such as retail foods, pharmaceuticals, and cargo. Our consulting services and systems development team can provide you with the resources you need to discover how RFID can benefit your business and improve your processes.

Partnering with Franwell, as you begin any RFID initiative, will provide your organization access to Franwell's more than 15 years of experience in RFID research and development. Our professional staff also has more than 90 years of combined experience in strategic planning, project management, software development and engineering, with specialization in the Supply Chain for the food and pharmaceutical industries. We can help you discover the benefits of RFID across the entire supply chain or at any link along the way.

For more information visit <http://www.franwell.com>

Our services include:

- Strategy and Architecture Development
- Project Management
- Project Delivery Roadmapping
- Business Process Reengineering
- Simulation, Analysis and Optimization
- Systems Analysis, Design and Development
- Integration Services
- Hardware evaluation and selection
- Hardware Integration and Implementation

